Built around 1500, Whitehall Historic House is being given a new lease on life thanks to a grant of £1.5m from the Heritage Lottery Fund (HLF).

The grant means vital repairs to the building can be carried out and a programme of activities will be launched to encourage more people to use the museum and learn about their heritage.

Repair work to the building will involve tackling a damp problem and removing some intrusive 20th century fixtures while other original features are restored. Work will also be carried out to improve access and visitor facilities. New exhibitions will be installed showing what life has been like locally since earliest times.

Closed from Sunday 10th April 2016 for HLF funding repairs and renovations, Whitehall will re-open in the summer of 2018 with a new public programme, exhibitions and displays.

The Past on Glass Project

www.pastonglass.wordpress.com

In 2016, The Past on Glass Project was awarded a second grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund. As well as enabling us to research the female sitters of the collection under the title 'Ordinary Lives: Extraordinary Times', this money will secure the plates in the long-term, completing vital conservation work and completing the digitisation of the entire collection. This work continues until August 2018. The project will be holding a series of events including an exhibition and public talks from March 2018. Visit the Honeywood Museum listings page for further details.

David Knights-Whittome was a local photographer who had many customers living in Sutton but also further afield. He became known as "Photographer to the King" because he photographed King Edward VII, his son George V and the future Edward VIII. The collection of glass plate negatives was discovered in the basement of 18 High Street, Sutton in 1978 and transferred to Sutton Library's Archives Section for storage but it is only in the last five years that two HLF grants have enabled us to begin preserving the collection for future generations.

Interested in Learning More or Volunteering?

We are looking for volunteers to help us with the project. Work includes cleaning the plates, recording information, inputting data on a spreadsheet, scanning, cataloguing and researching the people and places. The latter may be able to be done remotely or in our branch libraries.

Please contact Abby Matthews
Project Officer.
